

February 2023

All New Jersey Counties now in Spotted Lanternfly Quarantine Zone

New Jersey Secretary of Agriculture Douglas Fisher recently announced the Department has placed an additional eight counties in the spotted lanternfly quarantine zone. Every county in the state is now part of the zone. One of the primary purposes of the quarantine is to bring attention to residents and business owners to check all materials and vehicles for the spotted lanternfly or its egg masses before moving goods or traveling.

Get the details on the quarantine zone here:

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE PLACES ALL COUNTIES IN SPOTTED LANTERNFLY QUARANTINE ZONE

